MEXICAN LAURELS ENTWINED. REUNION OF THE VETERANS OF THE WAR OF 1848-

A RECEPTION AND BANQUET. Yesterday was the 26th anniversary of the entry of the American army into the City of Mexico. A committee, of which Major-Gen. Hooker was Chairman, had made arrangements for a reception at the City Hail, an eration at the Cooper Institute, and a dinner. The reception took place in the Governor's room, where the veterans began to assemble about noon. The Governor's Island Band was stationed on the baleony, and played until about 1 p. m. Among the most prominent person

About 1 p. m. Bragg's Battery, U. S. A., famed for its process at the battle of Buena Vista, arrived, soon after which the veterans formed in line in front of the City The Committee of Arrangements soon arrived from the Aster House, and a formal address was delivered by Mayor Havemeyer. He speke of the strange oincidence that the same hand which received those giorious flags from the veterans 25 years ago should now return them to their custody during this celebration. When they were first received, with the promise never to surrender them, which was nobly fulfilled, they had httle value. They came back dimmed and rent, but consecrated by toils and suffering to lasting renown. The speaker said that while he rejoiced to look upon so many from this and other States, he looked in vain for Scott and Wool and other illustrious men who had been cennected with their triumphs.

Gen. Ward R. Burnett, commander of the 1st N. Y. Vo

unteers in the Mexican war, and Chief Marshal of the y, responded in an appropriate manner. The line was then formed-a platoon of police; Brazg's Battery; ton : United States sailors : one company each from the 9th, 12th, and 71st Regiments, N. G., commanded by Capt. Des Marcis, and the veterans, being the elements of the procession. The line of march was up Broadway to Twenty-third-st. and thence to the Cooper Institute where the veterans arrived at 4 p. m. The hall was Iwe-thirds filled. Gen. Hooker occupied the seat of honor, with Lieut.-Gov. Robinson and Mayor Havemeyer at either hand.

Gen. Burnett opened the exercises by introducing Gen. Hooker, who was most enthusiastically received. The speaker, after thanking the audience for their favor, said that if he had done anything for the credit of his country, he was very thankful for it. He only did what America expects of every American. He said be was no talker, and was not there for that purpose. His duty was to introduce the Mayor of the metropolis, who had inspired this movement, which would last forever. The achievements of the Mexican war were wor thy of our pride, and some day would be talked and brenmed of more than now. It was grand in achievements and in consequences. It has given the United States California and opened a commerce with the ceived with cheers. He said that as he had spoken so extensively of the Mexican war in the previous exer many familiar faces among the veterans, faces which should be familiar to every one. He then introduced the erater of the day, *Charles W. Brooke. In the sourse of his address he said:

When the news of Taylor's march broke through the cleuds of apprehension, when the flower of Mexico's chivairy field before American bravery and determination, what shouts of exhibition rang through the country, and taught the old world a new lesson! How the people followed the trimuphant march into Matamoros! Monterey followed, and the ever-memorable struggle of Buena Vista. Many were the manes inscribed upon the country's temple of fame in that short time. Yera Cruz and Cerro Gordo, gave new luster to our country's arms. Finally our army byvonacked under the shadow of the halls of the Montenmas. THE HUNTINGTON MYSTERY. The Coroner's Jury in the Kelsey inquest assembled promptly at 9 a. m. yesterday at Reid's Hotel, Oyster Bay. Coroner Baylis was absent, having been effed to appear before the Grand Jury of Suffolk County now in session at Riverhead, and to testify in the case of Arthur T. Prime, who was arrested on the complaint of Charles G. Kelsey's brother, and charged with swearing falsely at the examination held before Justice Montfort, at Huntington, last Fall, and again last Tuesday. Justice Chipp, at the request of Coroner Baylis, was present, and after calling the names of the jurors, stating these facts and adding that District-Attorney Tuthill, as well as his associates, Messrs. Platt and Young, would in all probability be detained at Court until the middle of the week, adjourned the juguest until Thursday morning. A large number of witneses have been summoned to appear at this time, and important testimony will undoubtedly be given. It was reported in Huntington, yesterday, that the weight stolen from the mill on the road to Lloyd's Neck, on the night of Keisey's disappearance, had been recovered from the bottom of the harbor by the dredgers, but the report could be traced to no authentie source. Men in small boats are still dredging the harbor. A special lown meeting will be held at the Suffolk Hotel, Hautington, to-day, to raise money for the purpose of offering a suitable reward for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of Keisey, and of defraying the expenses of also prosecution. Some of the villagers claim that as the District Attorney is a salaried officer, he should be the prosecution. They also argue that if the Coroner's jury find a verdict implicating any person, no warrant for his arrest can be issued, as the offense was committed in Suffolk County, and hence a second inquest will have to be held in Suffolk County.

The Suffolk County Court met yesterday noon at Riverhead, Judge Beid presiding. The Grand Jary had not completed their labors at evening, but it was generally thought that Arthur T. Prime would be indicted for perjury. undoubtedly be given. It was reported in Huntington,

THE POLICE SURGEON SYSTEM

A RADICAL CHANGE REFECTED. The Board of Police entirely changed the Police Surgeon system yesterday, by dividing the city into 12 districts and giving each into the charge of a surgeon, except the twelfth, which will have two. The action was embodied in a report submitted by Commissioner Charlick, Chairman of the Surgeon's Committee, which was adopted. The report provides that the districts shall be so arranged as to bring as nearly as possible an equal number of policemen into the several districts. The surgeons are to care for the employes of the department and to attend such cases of disease or accident as may be brought to their attention by the police. The annual salary is to be $1,500, except in the Twelfth District, where the two surgeons employed are to receive $1,000 each. Three surgeons of high standing are to be appointed under the title of "Examining Surgeous," at a salary of $2,000 a year, who are to examine all applicants for the position of District Surgeon, and all cases specially referred to them, and who make reports as the Police Commissioners may request. A skilled surgeon is to be employed as "Medical Director" at $2.250 per year, who is to be stationed at the Department's Central Office, supervise the examinations of the Examining Surgeons, and report all shortcomings in the Surgeons' Department. The Examining Surgeons are to report in writing the result of all their examinations, and the Medical Director is to keep a perfect record of them and report them to the Commissioners. The District Surgeons are to make daily reports in writing of all visits to members of the force and Department, and of visits to station-houses and cases treated thereat, of which the Medical Director is to keep a record. Upon, the appointment of the District Surgeons, the Examining Surgeons, and the Medical Director, the designations of the existing surgeons are to be revoked. The new system will go into operation on Sept. 20. By the old system cach of the thirty-two precincts had four physicians, so that the change will greatly reduce the force. After the adoption of the report, Dr. John O-born was appointed Medical Director, and Drs. Feiler, Henry and Easign were appointed Examining Surgeons. The following appointments of District Surgeons were also made:

Edward F. Hutchinson was arrested at No. 174 West Houston-st. by Detective Farley, yesterday, on spicion of having been concerned in the murder of Patrick Donnelly at Hyde Park, Mass., a village near Boston. It will be remembered that, while Donnelly was in a liquor saloon with several companions, on the night of Sept. 7, a quarrel arose, and he was stabbed in the left side. An hour after the affray the wounded man was found lying insensible on the track of the Bosten and Providence Railroad. It was by some supposed that he had attempted to go to his home, but through that he had attempted to go to his home, but through loss of strength-had failen to the ground in this most dangerous position. It was suspected, however, that the man who stabled Donnelly dragged him from the liquor saloon and placed him on the track in the horrible hope that a passing train would both crush out life and obliterate the traces of the first crime. This supposition was strengthened by the fact that a train was due in a few moments after the wounded man was found. Donnelly was carried from the place where he was found to his home, and died on the following morning.

from the place where he was found to his home, and died on the following morning.

The constabulary force arrested two men who had been present in the saloon at the time of the murder, and learned from them that Hutchinson, who had also been present, had fied to Boston. In Boston the officers discovered that he had enlisted in the 1st U.S. Cavalry, and had been sent to the Houston-st. depot in this city. Here the Boston officers and Detective Farley found him, yesterday morning, and in the evening took him to Hyde Park.

WAS MRS. SURRATT MANACLED?

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: This morning's papers, on what pretends to be the authority of Gov. Hartranft, state that Mrs. Surratt was not manacled during her imprisonment. I attended the trial of the conspirators one day. There was a railing the whole length of one end of the room, about three feet from the wall, in which was a door leading, they said, to the prison. The prisoners sat in a row, behind this railing, Mrs. Surratt being nearest to the door leading into the ante room at that side, and quite near that leading to the prison. I was given a chair in the aisle, just inside the door, and so near to Mrs. Surratt that I could easily have shaken hands with her over or through the railing. I sat there two hours, sometimes touching the railing, when the crowd press ing at the door for entrance, induced me to move my chair, so that part of the time I was not more than one foot from her. She wore a heavy black dress, falling on the floor around her feet, so that I could not see them but every time she moved them I heard chains clauk. I had, before that, lived 15 years on a farm on which was a saw mill, was familiar with the sound of chains, and the difference between that of a wagon and log chain. The sound was that of a log chain. It could not have been made by anything but the heavy links of a chain, and that chain must have been fastened to both her ankles. The sounds could not have been made in any other way. The chains on her ankies must have been heavy enough to prevent her lifting her feet, for she only slid them on the floor, one at a time, for a little change of posture. She seemed to avoid moving, so as they clanked she blushed, painfully, blushed so they clanked she blushed, painfully, blushed so that I could see it through the heavy crape vail she wore over her face. I sat until she was removed. She arose with difficulty, leaning on the arm of the officer who seemed to be kind. She did not lift her feet it moving to and through the door, but slid one at a time, a little way, I think not further than that the heel of the forward foot came on a line with the toe of the other; but all the time the links ground and clanked. She could not move one foot an inch without making them gried. Mrs. Surratt sat before or rather on one side of her judges, chained with links of iron as heavy as those of a log chain; and while she sat thus she was grossly insulted by spectators, men and women, or things that looked like men and women. Once she turned pale when one of these creatures said: "I hope they"! I hang her! Just look at her! She looks like a devil!" I could not bear it, but spoke out and said: "She does not look like a devil!" She looks like a good, kind-hearted woman, and you are a mean coward for meniting a prisoner." A man, in reply, said to me: "She's a Rebiel," and I repeated, "Coward! coward."

Mrs. Surratt looked up and our eyes met. The expression of her face will hannt me to the grave, and I thank food for the look of gratitude it wore; but, as we were getting up quite a side show, an officer forced his way to us, to see what the matter was. I told him that people were insulting the prisoner. He made them stand back, moved my chair to the other side of the alsie, and set a man at the door, to keep order and prevent my holding communication with the prisoner. Mrs. Sarratt's chains were a common subject of conversation in Washington at the time. I wrote an account, at the time, which was published and extensively copied and commented upog, and this morning is the first time I have ever heard any denial of the fact than Mrs. Surratt was fettered as she sat vearily through the long hours and days of that trial.

A resolution to have Dr. Brown's statistics published as trustworthy finally assumed the phase of a vote of thanks, and the subject of the progress of Methodism in the two cities, as compared with that of other denominations, was continued for discussion next week.

THE RAILROAD BOND FORGERIES. The application to admit to bail James W.

Johnson, arrested in connection with the Central Railroad bond forgeries, was renewed yesterday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Justice Fancher It was argued by counsel that the decision in this court, in the case of The People agt. Lewis Baker et al., was conclusive as to the discretion of the court in the matter. He remarked that although additional indictments had been found against the accused, there were in reality only two charges of uttering forged bonds. The prisover had been an unconscious tool in the transaction, and the police had not yet been able to find the principals. Assistant District-Attorney Allen stated that they only wished to be sure of holding these men. The case was wished to be sure of holding these men. The case was an important one, and there was little knowledge at present of the extent of the forgeries. The case before the Grand Jury led to the belier that the two in custody were the principals. There were now 29 indictment against Johnson and 15 against James Y. Yates, whose counsel, Mr. Howe, also made application for his release on ball. In conclusion, Judge Fancher admitted the prisoners to ball, fixing the amount at $5,000 on each of the first indictments, and $1,000 on each of the others, or $33,000 for Johnson and $19,000 for Yates.
